The Voice of Amateur Golfers

Vol 7 issue 6

Bring on the Heat, its HERE and the return of daily showers have saved the many golf courses throughout the State. At the beginning of this month the fairways and the greens of the golf courses in our area were in bad shape. Good ole Mother Nature has stepped in and saved the day for many of the courses in the State.

This month is known as tournament month and do we have lots of them in this months issue. We have the gift of some young players that have grown up and now have taken the Tournaments in the area to the next level. From where I sit this young group of players will not have time to truly relax because of the continued growth of the many players that we have in the state that are waiting to take over. We have so many Jrs' that will be playing with the big boys in just a short time. As of this writing Austin Cody won the Santee Amateur this year and he is not even out of High School yet. Lets be aware that the youth of today mean to make their mark and have practiced and prepared to take over the Links. Get-r-done

93rd Amateur Championship

Hilton Head Island, SC - Patrick Rada of Anderson, SC fought off fellow University of South Carolina teammate Warren Thomas of Columbia, SC to win the 93rd Amateur Championship at Long Cove Club. The 19 year old Rada won by a 6 and 4 margin. Rada, whose older brother Travis caddied, fell to early three-down deficit after nine holes, but turned the match around quickly by winning six holes on the second nine holes. Rada went into the lunch break with a three-up lead. Rada maintained his lead with consistent pars on the final 14 holes to win the match. "Winning this event with my family here means so much to me", said the appreciative Rada. "I could not have done it without them." Thomas was crowned the CGA South Carolina Amateur champion a few weeks ago, and defeated Rada in the semifinals to take that title. Rada turned the tables in this event by defeating Thomas in the finals. Over 400 golfers attempted to qualify for the Carolinas Amateur with 154 advancing to the championship proper. The Carolinas Amateur is the oldest Carolinas Golf Association event and began in 1910. Former champions include Harvie Ward, Chip Beck, Billy Joe Patton, Charles Warren and Jonathan Byrd.

Dennis and Dambaugh Win Charleston City Junior

Charleston SC - Trey Dennis and Katelyn Dambaugh are the City of Charleston's newest golf champions, winning, respectively, the Boys' and Girls' City Junior Golf Championship, also known as the Al Esposito Junior Championship. Dennis needed extra holes in the 36 hole 2-day event to take the title. Dambaugh was just too much for the other Charleston Girls, winning easily at The Municipal Golf Course in Charleston. Trey Dennis made a birdie 3 on the first playoff hole, edging pars by Kyle Peters and Brannon Parnell. However, the 17th hole proved to be a momentum shifter. Parnell gave back all of his birdies on the back nine with a triple bogey 7, while Dennis made birdie, quickly closing the 4 shot gap. Kyle Peters, the 2007 Charleston Junior Tour Player of the Year points leader, carded the lowest round of the Championship, a four birdie-no bogey round of 68. After all three found the fairway on the opening playoff hole, Dennis hit his approach on the 1st hole to five feet. After watching both his opponents make par saves, Dennis rolled in his birdie to take the 53rd edition of the Al Esposito Junior Championship. Not as much drama surrounded Katelyn Dambaugh, as she waltzed through the field. Her closing 34, with 3 birdies to one bogey, shut the door on any hopes her competitors may have had. Many more City Championships may be in Dambaugh's future, as she is only 12 years old.

The other winners in the 53rd Annual City of Charleston / Al Esposito Junior Golf Championship included:

13 & 14 Year-old Boys Winner Jon Rushton (76 – 83 – 159)

10 – 12 Year-old Boys Winner Daniel Shirley (34 – 39 – 73)

Peters Leads Charleston City Junior Golf Tour

Charleston SC - Kyle Peters took the early lead in the Charleston City Junior Golf Tour. Peters' 77 won the first week, leading the Boy's Player of the Year race with 15 points. Evan Doucette is second with 14 points and Patrick Rogers is third with 13 points. As six weeks remain in the tour, including the City Championship, the Player of the Year award is still a wide open competition.

Madison West (15 points) and Lucas McNellis (14 points) lead the Pee Wee Player of the Year race. Jimmy Sudano and Caper Lever are tied at 13 points in 3rd place.

The Player of the Year is determined by the overall points leader at the end of the seven-week tour. 5 points are awarded for participation in the weekly event. 10 points are awarded to the weekly winner, 9 to the runner-up, 8 to 3rd, and so on. The Junior City Championship, July 11th & 12th, will be double-points event. The Boys and Girls Player of the Year will be awarded a scholarship of $500 for each of the first 4-years he/she attends college.

The Charleston City Junior Golf Tour is open to any junior under the age of 18. The Tour is designed to provide affordable opportunities for juniors to compete on the local level with their peers in a fun and competitive environment. This tour provides an experience to test those junior boys and girls with the desire to compete in high school, college and beyond. This seven-week tour, which includes the Charleston City Junior Championship, will have weekly awards and winners, as well as a Champions Dinner and 2007 Boys and Girls Players of the Year. The Boy's and Girl's Player of the Year will receive a scholarship of $500 for each of the first 4 year of college. EBERSOLE WINS PATRIOTS POINT LINKS MATCH PLAY TITLE

Mount Pleasant, SC – JUNE 18, 2007 – Retired but “but-not-quit-working” John Ebersole of Mount Pleasant played some of his best golf in winning the Patriots Point Links Match Play Championship. In the championship final Ebersole, 58, played near even par golf in edging Frank Forsberg of Mount Pleasant by the final score of 2 and 1. “Oh this was a fun event, good people, and great to get out and get the nerves going again,” smiled Ebersole, a 4-handicap golfer and a nine-year veteran of the National Football League in the mid-1970s. “We had our ups and downs and it was fairly close throughout the match.” Both Ebersole and Forsberg are first year members of Patriots Point Links. Forsberg, a Pearlstine Distributors representative agreed the competition in the match play event was good and that he had his chances. “I made a couple of birdies, but John answered so it was fun to play good golf, yet I came up short I still feel I won a few new friends,” added Forsberg. For the win Ebersole claims a trophy, gift certificate, a monogrammed “Match Play Champion” Ping carry bag, and an invitation to compete in the Ginn Cup.

Charity event leaving Strand

After three years in Pawleys Island, the Hannah & Friends Celebrity Golf Classic founded by University of Notre Dame football coach Charlie Weis in 2004 is leaving the Grand Strand.

The tournament was held at True Blue Plantation and Caledonia Golf & Fish Club from 2004-06, but is scheduled this year to be held on Notre Dame's Warren Golf Course near South Bend, Ind., on June 9.

Logistics, expenses and a land business deal that fell through apparently contributed to the tournament's relocation, according to John Springs, the general manager of True Blue and Caledonia who is also on the 20-member board of directors for the tournament beneficiary, the Hannah & Friends Foundation. Springs' wife, Ann Reed Springs, is also on the board. Because many tournament participants are connected to the university, it became less expensive and more convenient to hold the event at Notre Dame.

"They were offered the golf course, and because he brought all his staff and Notre Dame supporters were all involved in it, they thought they would try it up there this year," Springs said.

The tournament benefits children and the families of children affected by autism and global delays, and both the tournament and charitable foundation are named for Hannah Weis, the 11-year-old autistic daughter of Charlie and Maura Weis. Three-year tournament chairman Rex Wicker of Pawleys Island said the 2006 tournament raised nearly $350,000 and netted about $200,000 for the foundation.

The tournament's primary purpose is to provide funding for the construction and ongoing operation of a farm featuring a petting zoo and riding program that will provide jobs and recreation for those with developmental disorders - some of whom will live at the farm.

Weis has a condominium in Pawleys Island, and originally planned to build the farm around Georgetown County so he could eventually retire in the area and be close to his daughter.

Springs said property was found on the north end of Charleston County, and the owner also had a relative with a developmental disorder. The land was to be donated and the foundation was going to provide funding for its operation. But the deal fell through on the date of closing last summer.

As a result, the area has lost not only the tournament but probably the farm as well. The Weis' have received permission from the foundation board to procure land in Indiana for the farm, and tracts have already been identified, according to Wicker, who doesn't believe the tournament will return to the Strand.

"They are certainly welcome to come back," Springs said. "I told Maura, 'We'll see how it goes, see what kind of support you get up there.' I'm hoping maybe they won't have as much fun and they'll want to come back down here. Things can always change."

Celebrities who have already committed to participate this year include Rocky Bleier, Reggie Brooks, Mike Golic, Ara Parseghian, Digger Phelps and Rocket Ismail.

Past participants at True Blue included Tom Brady, Jake Delhomme, John Fox, Lou Holtz, Tim Brown, Adam Vinatieri, Rodney Harrison, Deion Branch and Jerome Bettis. The tournament was never open to spectators.

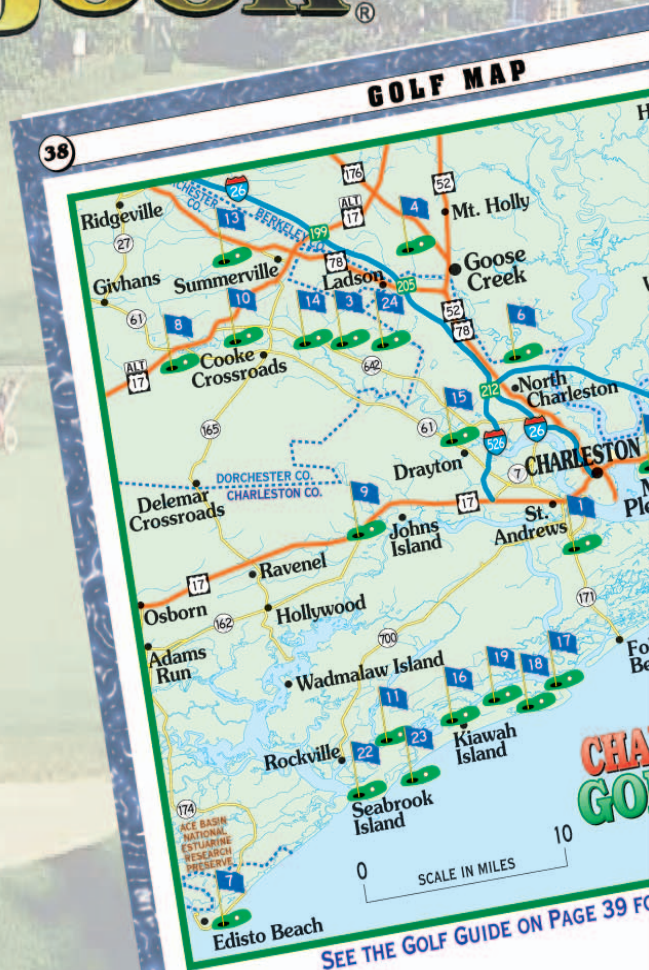

"We'll miss not having it," said True Blue head pro Bob Seganti. "It was a nice feather in our cap. We enjoyed everyone's company, and we were happy we could raise hundreds of thousands of dollars for the charity. We're disappointed it's not here."

Taylor Barrett is going to the 107th US Women's Amateur

Columbia, S.C. - South Carolina women's golfer Taylor Barrett has qualified for the 107th U.S. Women's Amateur Championship after advancing at a qualifier held at the Sapona Country Club in Lexington, N.C. on Thursday, July 5.

Barrett, a sophomore from York, S.C., posted a two-over par 73 to tie for tenth. She advanced by hitting a birdie on the third hole of a playoff round. "This is my first time at the Women's Amateur," Barrett said. "I've been in the Public Links three times. (This) was exciting because the Women's Amateur is bigger. I'm ready to see how I compete at a high level. I've qualified for six USGA events and qualified for them all in the playoffs. Qualifying like that is nerve-wracking but fun."

Barrett competed in six tournaments for the Gamecocks this season, posting a low round of 70 at the LSU/Cleveland Classic. Her best finish came at The Derby Invitational when she tied for 14th.

"It's exciting for (her just being) a rising sophomore," Coach Kristi Coggins said. "Taylor is such a great talent and competitor. I think she can go and win the whole thing because she's great at match play. I'm excited for her and to see how it ends up." The U.S. Women's Amateur is considered the highest honor in women's amateur golf. Play begins on Monday, Aug. 6 at the par-72 Crooked Stick Golf Club in Carmel, Ind. The Amateur will feature two rounds of stroke play to cut the field from 156 to 64, and then the golfers will compete in match play for four rounds. The final day of competition on Sunday, Aug. 12 will see the remaining two players going head-to-head for 36 holes of match play for the Championship title.

S.C. Junior Match Championship

Greenville, SC—Hayden Letien of Sumter, captured the medalist and the number one seed for match play by firing a 6 under par 66 in the stroke play qualifying of the SC Junior Match Play Championship. Letien, a 15 year old high school sophomore, recorded 2 eagles, 3 birdies and one bogey in his round on the 6,825 yard course at Furman University. Finishing one stroke behind was Crawford Reeves of Greenville. Haley Stephens of Greer was the girls' medalist after shooting round of 2 over par 74. In the boys 13 and under division, Tyler Williams of Hilton Head Island finished with a 3 under par 69 to secure the medalist award in his division.

Barrett graduated from York Comprehensive High School as the number one ranked golfer in the state. She was recognized as the South Carolina Class 3A Player of the Year in 2003 and was the Class 4A Player of the Year in 2004 and 2005. Barrett was the 2005 winner of the South Carolina Junior Golf Association's Beth Daniel Award as the top player in the state after winning individual championships at the 2004 and 2005 Class 4A State Championships.

Field is set for The Blade Junior Golf Classic

Greer SC – One hundred and thirty five young junior golfers have earned their way into the 2007 Blade Junior Golf Classic and will tee it up in a two day stroke play tournament on the links of Thornblade Club. Tournament finishes over the past year determined the highly talented field for the 9th annual playing of this championship to take place on July 17-18, 2007.

Scheduled to compete are USGA Junior Championship Qualifiers, Will Ovenden, Michael Muscatell, Thomas Bradshaw, and Corbin Mills, all of whom should be strong contenders for the over-all boys title. The upstate will be well represented with Crawford Reeves, Clint Tolleson, and Cory Taylor, all possessing the abilities to challenge for the championship.

SCJGA Player of the Year, Rachel Uremovoch will have her hands full as she attempts to defend her 2006 Blade Junior Golf Classic Girls Title. The Dunnagan cousins, Maureen and Dannielle, will be competing along with Greer's own Haley Stephens to make sure Rachel has some strong competition.

Since 2002, a major part of this competition has been the fund-raising Junior-Am held the Monday prior to the championship. Gracious sponsors come to play with these bright young stars in a day of golf that culminates with an all-star clinic conducted by Champions Tour player Jay Haas. As the sixth annual event rolls around, Mr Haas, The Blade Junior Committee, and Thornblade Club thought a tribute to Greenville's own B.K. Bryan would be warranted as funds raised will benefit junior golf and more importantly, pediatric cancer research. Mr. Bryan was a tremendous citizen of Greenville for over 60 years and his philanthropy was well known. Together with Mr. Haas, the event sponsors, and Thornblade Club, 2007 will mark a total of giving of an estimated $75,000 to pediatric cancer research.

30th S.C. JUNIOR MATCH PLAY CHAMPIONSHIP OF THE CAROLINAS GOLF ASSOCIATION

There will be more than titles at stake when the Carolinas Golf Association conducts its 30th South Carolina Junior Match Play Championship July 10-13 at Furman University Golf Club in Greenville, SC. The youngsters playing in the Boys 14-18 age division not only will be competing for the James T. Worley trophy that goes to the winner, but also for berths on the team that represents the CGA in the Carolinas-Virginias Junior Boys Team Matches. Both the champion and runnerup earn berths on the Carolinas team that will travel to Boonsboro Country Club in Lynchburg, Va. for the Aug. 18-19 competition. South Carolina Restructures Golf Program

Athletics Director Eric Hyman is pleased to announce a new, unified University of South Carolina golf program, it was announced today.

Effective immediately, long-time men's golf coach Puggy Blackmon will assume the newly created position of University of South Carolina Director of Golf. His primary responsibility will be to implement a structure utilizing the experience, expertise and talents of the entire coaching staff to benefit and develop all Gamecock golfers. He will also be involved in player development, fundraising and finding additional practice and playing facilities for the program.

"This is an organizational structure that is on the cutting edge," said Hyman. "Several high profile schools, including Southern California, Minnesota and Purdue have gone to this model with a lot of success. Our goals are to win championships, graduate student-athletes and elevate South Carolina to a consistent position among the nation's elite," continued Hyman. "The new unified South Carolina Golf program will create a team and family environment in a highly competitive atmosphere with a commitment to excellence."

Courtney Taylor of Gastonia, NC wins the 51st Carolinas Junior Girls' Championship

Florence, SC – 51st Carolinas Junior Girls' Championship hosted by the Country Club of South Carolina in Florence, SC on Thursday, July 28, 2007. Par 36-36-72, 5887 yards.

16 year old Courtney Taylor of Gastonia, NC wins the 51st Carolinas Junior Girls' Championship by a 2 up margin over Amy Otteson of Wilson, NC. Taylor faced hot conditions and tough opponents to win. In the semi-finals she faced Haley Stephens of Greer, SC. The match was back and forth most of the day but after Stephens had a loss of hole penalty on the back nine, Taylor seized the open door opportunity and won by a 4 & 3 margin.

Although the final match against Otteson would prove to be a long and demanding afternoon of patience and solid shot making. Otteson showed true heart and determination throughout the day as she suffered through severe pain from large blisters that had formed on her feet throughout the week. She hung tough and with the help from her brother who served as her caddie she limped on into the final match beating Elizabeth Thompson of Charleston, SC by a 3 & 2 margin.

She was limping even more and walking slower in the final match against Taylor but again, she pushed through the pain, and stayed steady in the final match of the championship. Both Taylor and Otteson were steady off the tee and both girls traded leads throughout the front nine. The eleventh hole seemed to be the turning point for Otteson where she lost the hole to go one down against Taylor. Taylor earned another hole to go 2-up heading into the fifteenth hole but Otteson drained a putt for birdie on the fifteenth to keep her chances alive. The sixteenth and the seventeenth hole were halved and Otteson, who is a long driver of the golf ball, was looking to get a good drive in to take the match to extra holes. Unfortunately, her drive found the water on the eighteenth hole and Taylor would win the match 2-up. "My shot game was pretty good today", Taylor said. "I made some great up and downs when I needed to under pressure. I would have to say it definitely helped me to win against Amy. I could see she was in a lot of pain, but she just wouldn't go away."

Although Taylor has won many junior championships this is the first time she would be the Carolinas Junior Girls' champion and her name will be added to the historic trophy that holds the names of many great past champions such as Marge Burns and Beth Daniel.

All players were seeded after stroke play qualifying and broken down into flights. Complete match play results are listed below. The sub-junior division plays 9 holes and a shorter course. This championship is conducted by the Carolinas Golf Association.

Daniel Lee named GCAA All-America Scholar

NORMAN, Okla. – The Cleveland Golf All-America Scholars for Division II have been announced by the Golf Coaches Association of America All-America Scholars Committee. Newberry College's Daniel Lee has been honored as an All-America Scholar for the second consecutive year. Juniors and seniors with a 3.2 minimum cumulative grade-point average are eligible to be a Cleveland Golf All-America Scholar. In addition, athletes must obtain under a 78.0 stroke average for Division II.

Lee, from Lincolnton, Ga., graduated from Newberry College in May 2007. In the 2006-07 season, Lee averaged 77.9 strokes per round in 18 rounds. His best tournament came at the Mid-Carolina Invitational in September 2006, where he shot 75-75=150 to finish tied for sixth place. "I am so happy that Daniel has again been recognized as an All-America Scholar," said head coach Brian McCants. "Daniel is the true definition of a student-athlete. He has made such an impact with our program, it's hard to put into words. On behalf of the other players within the men's golf family, we express our most sincere congratulations to Daniel." Rada and Oldham are Victorious in 2007 SCGA Four Ball Championship

Camden SC -Patrick Rada and Will Oldham claimed the 2007 SCGA Four Ball Championship with a 2 & 1 victory over Allen Koon and Baker Elmore.

The winning team made an early statement with an Oldham birdie on the 2nd hole, a 170 yard par three, to get off to a quick start. After an up and down par on the 4th hole by Rada, another birdie two on the par three 8th hole by Oldham and a birdie by Rada on the 9th the upstate natives were 4 up going into 10.

Elmore and Koon however were not ready to hand over the Championship. A birdie three on the 11th by Elmore and a Koon birdie on the 15th got the University of South Carolina teammates within two. Rada and Oldham's lead proved to be too much to overcome though as the two team swapped pars on 16 and 17 to finish the match.

The 44th Annual event was played on the 6,351 yard, par 70 golf course at Camden Country Club in Camden. The Four Ball Championship began with a field of 72 teams battling for 31 qualifying positions for the Match Play portion of the event.

Koon Takes Medalist Honors

Columbia SC -By virtue of being the only one available for a playoff, Allen Koon of Bamberg took medalist honors with a score of 69 at the SCGA Amateur Qualifier held at Northwoods Golf Course. Evan Phillips, a Lexington native, was the first off in the morning also shot a three under par 69. Sixty Nine players teed it up competing for nineteen spots and ties. Twenty three players finished at 74 or better to make the field. The 2007 SCGA Amateur Championship will be played August 2-5 at The Country Club of South Carolina in Florence, SC.

Ovenden and Pleier take the Junior Festival of Flowers

Greenwood -Will Ovenden fired the low round of the day to win the Junior Festival of Flowers by two shots over Barnwell's Kyle Bearden. Taylor Pleier never faltered in the final round and captured the girls division of the Festival. Spartanburg's Ovenden fired an opening 71 and followed up with a 68 to put his name on the Jimmy Self Memorial Trophy. "I played solid all day and just kept it out of trouble", said the 2009 graduate. Fellow Dorman teammate, Pleier, toured the 5,731 yard track in 76 shots on her opening round. She bettered her co-leader, Haley Stephens, by three shots in the final round to add her name next to Will's on the perpetual trophy. The event was graciously hosted by the membership of Greenwood Country Club and is presented by Greenwood Development Corporation. The staff at Greenwood Country Club, Greenwood Development, and all of the volunteers have to be commended on an outstanding inaugural effort.

For 11 years, the Jimmy Self was known as a premier high school invitational conducted by the South Carolina Junior Golf Association. The 2007 event has transformed into an individual stroke play competition for both boys and girls, thereby opening the doors to those who may not have been on a championship high school team. Keeping education as a priority, the field was selected based strictly on their academic record and handicap index.

As part of the month long celebration known as the Festival of Flowers, a junior specific tournament was added to the long running invitational golf tournaments held in Greenwood. The tournament is held in memory of James C. "Jimmy" Self Jr. . He was the former Chairman-of-the-Board for Greenwood Mills, who died in 1995. Mr. Self served as captain of the golf team at Clemson in 1964 & 65, was on the South Carolina Golf Association Board from 1969-71 and was generous to the game of golf in the years that followed. The parties involved felt this tournament would be a great tribute to the man that gave so much to golf.

35th South Carolina Amateur Match Play Championship

PAWLEYS ISLAND, SC Final round match play results of the 35th South Carolina Amateur Match Play Championship of the Carolinas Golf Association hosted by True Blue Golf Plantation in Pawleys Island, SC on Sunday, June 17, 2007. (6920 yards, Par 37-35-72). Warren Thomas of Columbia defeated 2005 champion Kellen Altman of Myrtle Beach, 4 and 2, in the championship match. Thomas, a rising senior at the University of South Carolina, never trailed in the match. The win is Thomas's first CGA major victory. In the morning round, Thomas vaulted out to a 4 up lead through nine holes. Altman chipped away at the lead by winning the 10th and 11th holes to go two down. But Thomas won the 14th and 15th holes with birdies to re-take a 4 up lead heading into the afternoon round. Thomas's largest lead came with a birdie at the par three 21st hole to gain a 5 up advantage. Altman bounced back with wins at the 21st and 22nd holes to cut the lead to a 3 up advantage. Altman's second shot at the par five 27th hole hooked left of the green and was never found. Altman conceded the hole to Thomas. Altman tried to mount a comeback. He birdied the 30th hole only to have Thomas knock one right on top of him. Altman birdied the 31st hole to cut the lead to 3 down. The next 3 holes were halved and Thomas was dormie heading to the 188-yard par 3 34th hole. Altman's tee shot just missed the green right and kicked into the lateral water hazard splashing any hopes of a late rally. Thomas's par putt was conceded for the victory. My mom was the good luck charm this week, stated Thomas. I made her ride in the cart all week. She got out once and I hit a shot over the green. I asked her to get back in and then I almost holed that chip. Ever since then she stayed in the cart. Good luck charm or not, Thomas played solid golf on Sunday. Through 34 holes played, Thomas was 8-under par that included 11 birdies and a conceded eagle. Every time I tried to make a rally, Warren topped me. He played very solid today, said Altman. This championship is conducted by the Carolinas Golf Association. Championship Match Warren Thomas, Columbia, SC def. Kellen Altman, Myrtle Beach, 4&2

76th Annual Amateur Championship Qualifying

Simpsonville native, Todd Hendley, fired consecutive nines of 34 and earned medalist honors with an overall score of four under par 68. On the day, Hendley had five birdies and one bogey to take the top spot at the Three Pines State Amateur Qualifier.

Ninety two players were competing for twenty three spots and ties. Eventually, even par 72 was the score that made the cut for the 76th Annual SCGA Amateur Championship. Twenty six players finished at 72 or better to make the field.

The 2007 SCGA Amateur Championship will be played August 2-5 at The Country Club of South Carolina in Florence, SC. Three Pines Country Club is the first of four qualifying sites for this year's event. The Amateur Championship is one of 18 Major Championships conducted annually by the South Carolina Golf Association.

9th Carolinas Women's Amateur Match Play Championship

Stanley, NC — Final Round Results of the 9th Carolinas Women's Amateur Match Play Championship hosted by Cowans Ford Country Club in Stanley, NC on July 12, 2007. Par 36-36—72, 5936 yards. The chatter among the membership at Cowans Ford Country Club prior to the semi-final matches were to begin was that Patty Moore of Charlotte, NC would have her hands full and a big challenge ahead of her when she would face local favorite, Chris Brady of Stanley, NC. Unfortunately for Brady, 57-year-old silenced that chatter when she went on into the finals by defeating Brady by a 4 & 3 margin. The match seemed to be pretty close through the first nine holes when Brady chipped in from off the green to take the match to all square but Moore made a great birdie putt on hole ten to go one-up. That birdie putt would prove to be the momentum shift that Moore needed to seal the deal and head on into the finals. In the second semi-final match Kristen Vincent of Burlington, NC faced off against Taylor Barrett of York, SC. Vincent was two-up at the turn but after Barrett won ten and eleven the match became all square heading into number fourteen. Both girls made a good par and they moved onto the 515 yard par-5 with a deep hazard in front of the green. Barrett hit her second shot into the hazard. Vincent felt the door was wide open but her pitch found the hazard in front of the green and in the end Barrett found herself one-up heading into sixteen. Vincent had her chance to close out the match on eighteen but missed a putt to send it into extra holes where Barrett hit her approach shot to five feet for birdie and the trip into the finals where she faced the tough senior. Just as in the semi-final match Moore never had a bogey all day. "I really think not having any bogey's all day really helped me win. I was pretty much putting for birdie on every hole which was a big plus against my opponents." The 57-year old Moore who is a retired P.E. teacher from Texas has won so many CGA championships but has never won this CGA women's major. "I am a tough old bird," stated Moore, "I must admit this is pretty fun for me and it feels great to still be so competitive against these young girls." Moore is again well on her way to earn CGA Senior Women's Player of the Year honors yet again and even possibly the CGA Women's Player of the Year award as well which would be a remarkable feat which she has accomplished before.

2007 Interclub Championship Date and Site Announced

West End, NC - The 2007 CGA Interclub Championship will be held at Pinewild Country Club in Pinehurst on Sunday, November 4. After four rounds of home-and-home competition involving 32 regular-season group winners throughout the spring and summer, two clubs will compete for the championship trophy on the Magnolia Course at Pinewild.

The semifinal teams will compete in morning matches on the layout that opened in 1989 and has hosted six CGA championships, including the 1991 Carolinas Amateur, as well as USGA qualifiers. During the past two years, the Magnolia Course has undergone an extensive re-design.

The Carolinas Interclub Match Series has grown during the past 12 years and currently involves 78 CGA member clubs in North Carolina and South Carolina. The event features match-play team competition among neighboring clubs for scratch and net golfers in individual and four-ball net competition.

Montgomery Country Club of Troy, NC won the 2006 title by edging the 2005 champions, River Hills Country Club of Lake Wylie, SC, at Tanglewood Park's Championship course in Clemmons, N.C.
